“I stupidly left the plug out when I put my boat in this year, Alex. Is there a way of making sure that this never occurs again?”

Sometimes the simplest method of solving that problem is the best. When you pull your boat from the water and unscrew the drain plug, take a tie wrap and attach the plug to the steering wheel. Even if you put the boat in the water and forget to put the plug you will soon see it hanging from the steering wheel instead of where it should be back in the boat.

When Gully's Restaurant was booming at the Newburgh Boat Ramp you could sit at the bar and watch people launch boats. It was the best entertainment on a hot afternoon. One of the most interesting was watching the stern of the boat sink lower and lower in the water as the driver pulled out and parked his vehicle and trailer. By the time he got back to his tied up boat, he was stepping into two inches of water...at the helm.

The other incident that occurred more than once was the driver disconnecting the trailer from the car while the boat was still strapped to the trailer. Now you have a trailer and a boat floating away while the driver blamed the whole thing on whom ever was behind the wheel of the car. That is a double feature Sunday afternoon circus that should not be missed. Sadly Gully's is no longer there so you will have to sit on the edge of the ramp and watch from there.

My team and I have seen it all and we love what we do. We try our very best to accommodate everyone that comes to us with a problem. During the spring, when the weather gets hot, everyone wants his or her boat in at the same time. We do our very best to help you all.

We sincerely appreciate you coming to us for service, help or with your questions. Please don't stop just because we are busy, we love you all.
