COEYMANS LANDING MARINA MAKES HUGE INVESTMENT IN THE FUTURE

by Jack Armstrong

It's hard to believe that three years ago, Coeymans Landing Marina changed hands after more than 28 years and was purchased by Carver Layaway Industries.

What had always been a premier full service marina on the upper Hudson River has been improved dramatically with new buildings, new services and other amenities.

For instance, Coeyman Marine Services, run by Carl Senter and Jim Costello has been at Coeymans Landing Marina for over 25 years. Now they are housed in a brand new building with plenty of room to grow. Their fully stocked repair facility, offices and work areas are much larger and can handle bigger boats inside than ever before. I personally witnessed these two master mechanics change out a 350 HP Crusader inboard engine in one day. That included completely disconnecting all the wiring, lines, harnesses and drive train and, by noon was reinstalling a newly purchased replacement engine. The charter boat captain that had the work done did not lose a single client as it was during the striped bass run and his livelihood depended on him having a properly operating boat!

There is a complete boat restoration and fiberglass repair facility called Stem to Stern operated by Mel Perkins that can take on just about any job that is asked of him. The new building that he operates out of on the grounds gives him full capabilities in all aspects of repair and rebuild.

One of the most important features of any marina is the bathroom and shower facility. To that end, Carver Laraway Industries completely rebuilt the entire bathrooms by tiling everything throughout and then adding all new toilets, showers and other amenities.

As important to a boater, especially traveling boaters, as anything else is the laundry room. This too has been renovated to provide excellent services to all who visit it.

A captain's lounge has been added, fully equipped with refrigerator, large screen TV, lounge chairs and other components to make a traveler or regular visitor feel right at home.

The restaurant on premises is one of the most popular on the Hudson River. Named Yanni's Too it is famous far and wide for its Calamari and other unique dishes.

While many of the Coeyman's Landing Marina crew and support staff are still there, making for a smooth transition from previous owner to present owner, such as Eric Allen, Yard Foreman, others such as the Marina Manager, Jena Misuraca and others are offering the same warm and heartfelt greetings to everyone that visits Coeyman's Landing Marina. The main telephone number is 518 756 6111 Address is 20 Marina Dr. Revena, NY 12143
